

WEBSITES OF THE WEEK (2)

ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH

Information sources play a crucial role in the study and practice of environmental health within university programs. Overall, information sources are essential for supporting teaching, research, practice, and advocacy in environmental health programs at universities. By providing access to reliable, up-to-date information, these sources empower students and practitioners to make informed decisions, advance scientific knowledge, and contribute to improving public health and environmental quality.

This week, Friendship Library, in its Websites of the Week information promotion service, brings to you the following website for Environment Health Program within the Faculty of Medicine and Health Sciences. We hope these websites will add value to staff and students in your search for information to support your teaching, learning and research.

National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences:

www.niehs.nih.gov

Environmental Health Collection in Open Educational Resources:

oercommons.org/curated-collections/724

Openstax:

openstax.org/subjects/science

LibreTexts:

bio.libretexts.org